

What is the Strategic Mobility Plan?

Greater New Orleans is changing. The Regional Transit Authority (RTA) is developing a Strategic Mobility Plan that will establish the vision, goals and roadmap for public transportation in the city and region for the next 20 years. The process will include feedback from the general public, passengers, and many stakeholder groups. The plan will be complete by the end of 2017 and is part of the RTA's larger commitment to equity and access for all, as well as excellent service and performance.
